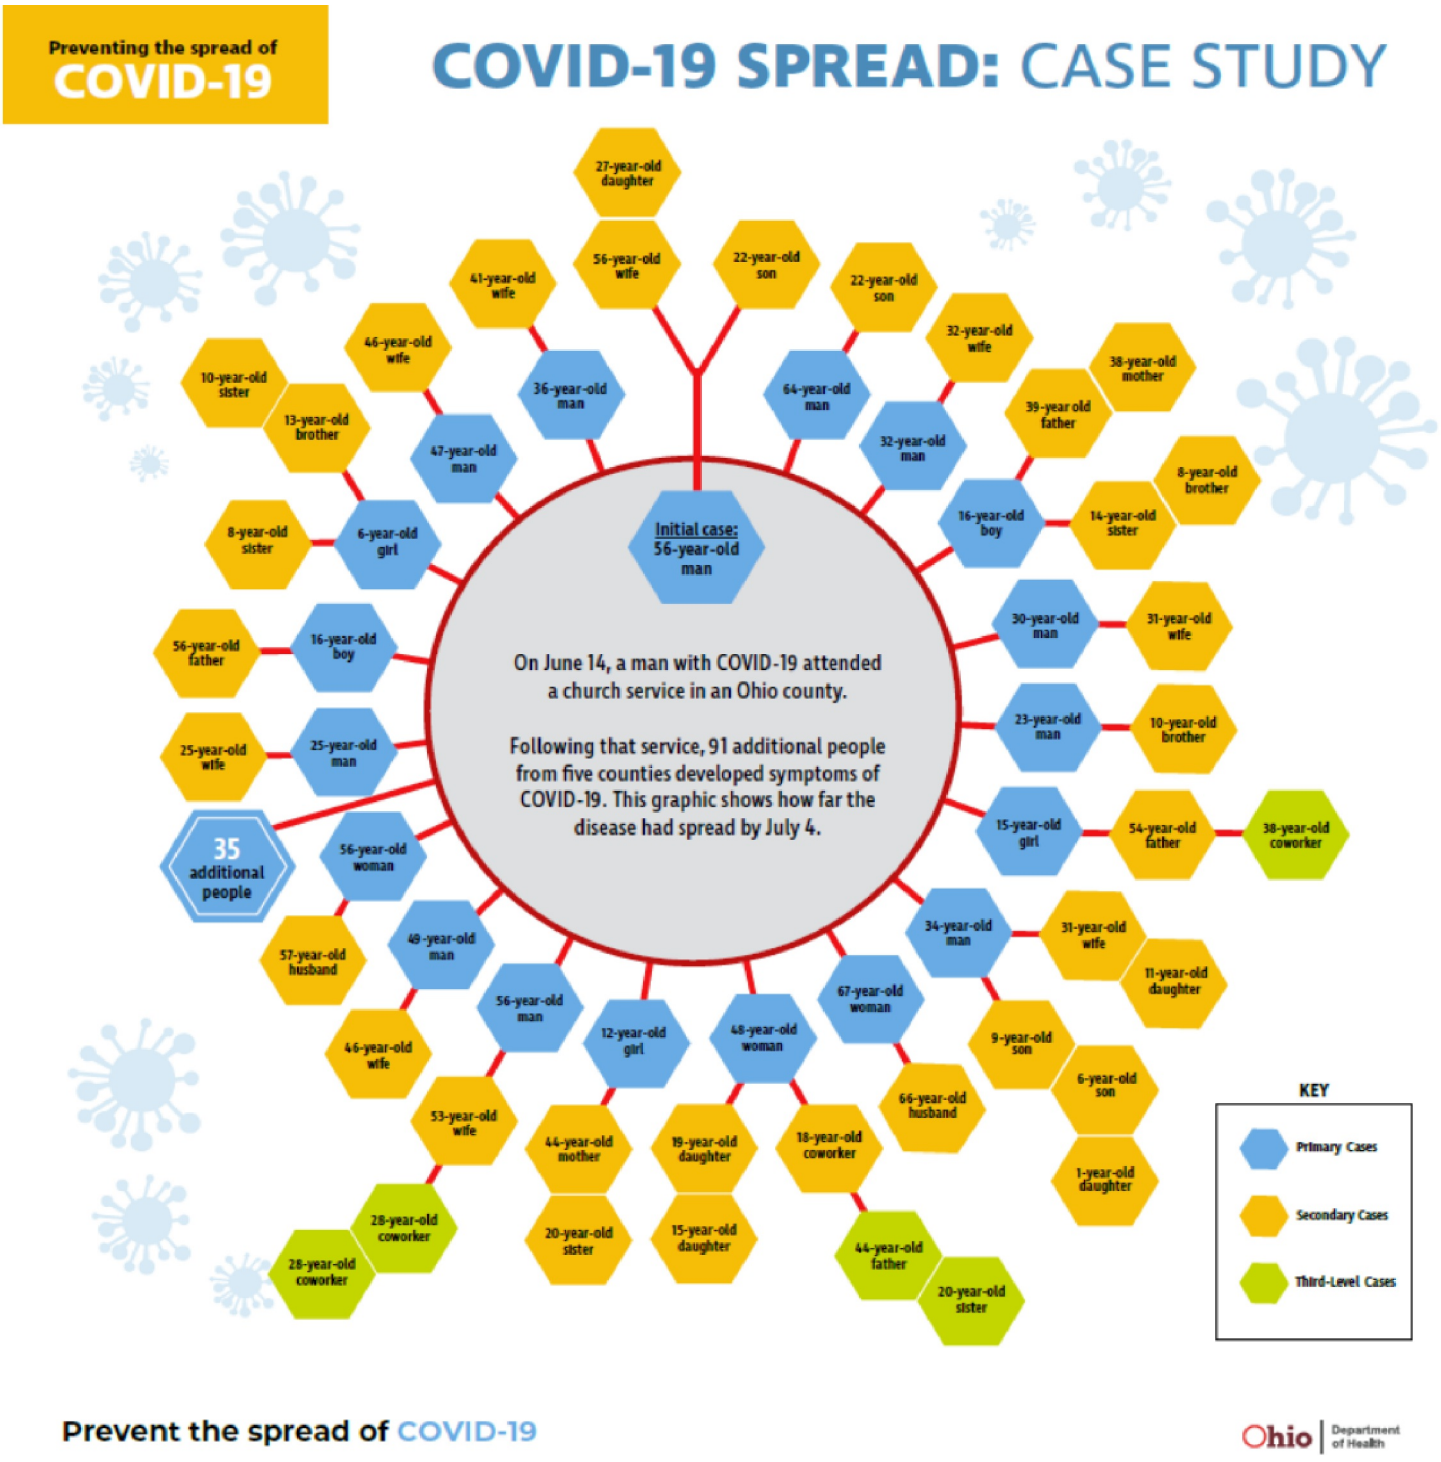
We have now hit the Infection Level of Five Million Persons. The virus is spreading.

Perhaps you have read of “contract tracing” but never actually seen an example. Often referred to as “disease detectives,” Contact Tracers strive to break the chain of virus transmission by interviewing infected persons to identify their contacts and advise them to quarantine to prevent further spread of the disease.


At an Ohio Church Service, nearly 100 people got sick after one man infected with the coronavirus attended a church service. Here is a diagram of Contract Tracing in that Church.